CODEBOOK

Format of the database is SPSS, the file is called: ICVS2005_3.sav

The data in key-findings have been computed using:
-national data-
identification variable I005b, in combination with weighting variable W005b
-main city data-
Identification variable I004a, in combination with weighting variable W004a

These weighing variables are based on individual respondents, not every survey was provided with household weights, but these weights are added to the database in case they were available.

- On the CD are the SPSS syntax that were used to generate most of the tables and graphs in the latest key-report (van Dijk, van Kesteren, Smit, 2008).
- On the CD is a working paper version of the key report in PDF.

The codebook consist of three parts

1. Listing of the identification variables, years in which the surveys were done and the number of cases in the survey
2. Overview of the items plus the variable labels in the database and the corresponding question numbers in the basic ICVS questionnaires
3. The variable and value labels for each item
